MISCELLANEOUS READING. OPPOSITION TO YOUNG MEN.

Every body knows how common it is for old and middle-aged men to try to keep young men from rising in the world, by speers at the youthfulness of the aspirantsas even in the case of Walpool, whose taunts against Pitt so signally failed to depress the latter, and served but to "damn their author to everlasting shame." No young man of talents, but has had such enemies to encounter-men who seem to take a fiendish delight and cherish certain malicious pleasure in seeking to depress everything like genuine enthusiasm and the buoyant ambition of the bright or brilliant young man. This arises half from malice, and as much from utter ignorance of the nature and temperament of genius. When the climber upwards has gained a place among his peers, eringe and fawn as basely as they formerly maligned and ridiculed him, and would fain crowd out his old friends and staunch adherents. In his green age and budding season, the youth of genius craves and requires sympathy. It is with him especially, (and to a measure with all men,) an intellectual want, as evident as the coarsest, necessary element of existence.

SPEAKING OUT IN DREAMS.

A correspondent of the Richmond Dispatch, tells the following in a letter from one of the Springs:

"An amusing incident occurred on the cars of the Virginia and Tennessee road, which to our stock of Brown and Bleached Cottons, must be preserved in print. It is too good to be lost. As the train entered the Big Tunnel, near this place, in accordance with the usual custom, a lamp was lit. A servant girl profound slumber, but just as the lamp was lit she awoke, and, half asleep, imagined herself in the infernal regions. Frantic with fright, she implored her Maker to have mercy on her, remarking, at the same time, "the devil has got me at last." Her mistress, sitting on the seat in front of the terrified negro, was deeply mortified and called upon ber-"Mollie, don't make such a noise; it is I, be not afraid." The poor African immediately exclaimed, "Oh, missus dat you; just what I spected; I always thought if eber I got to the bad place, I would see you dar." These remarks were uttered with such vehemence, that not a word was lost and the whole car became convulsed with laughter."

There is a very nice, genteel young lady in Peoria, Illinois, who in twenty-one years has been married three times. On each occasion of her marriage she was united to a man younger than herself, and the last time ed Cloths; Cassimeres, for Coats, Pants and Vests; to one who was twenty-three years her junior. Black, Steel-mixed, and fancy Cassimeres; Vest- She lived happy with the first and unhappy ings, Silk, Valencia, Velvet, &c.; Merino Shirts; with the second, but prefers the last. At the age of twenty she was wedded to a man aged nineteen, with whom she lived six years. At the age of thirty she married a man of twenty, with whom she lived only two years. After a lapse of nearly nine years of "single blessedness," at the end of which time she was fortyone years old, she married again, and in this instance, capped the climax, the man she married being only eighteen years old, her present husband, with whom she has lived very happily for two years, If he is a considerate young man he will die soon and give the widow a chance to look up somebody else.

Corpulence is said to be sought after and encouraged in Paris by fashionable people. An excellent fattening process is to jump off of some high place, or, out of a window, as you are sure to come down plump!
